

From: GeneralConference@ecpr.eu
Subject: Paper Proposal for ECPR General Conference 2026, Jagiellonian University, 8 – 11 September 2026
Date: 9 February 2026 at 17:45
To: bstanley@swps.edu.pl

Dear Ben Stanley

Congratulations! Your Paper, The Rise of the Far Right Under Poland's Post-Illiberal Government, has been accepted for presentation at the 2026 ECPR General Conference, under the Panel, Democratic Backsliding and Resilience: Lessons from Central and Eastern Europe in the Innovation in Regime Studies: New Approaches to Understanding Contemporary Political Regimes Section. You can browse the Academic Programme here.

Panel format

Please ensure you are aware of the format of your Panel. You can do this by checking the Panel code in the Academic Programme as follows:

- P for in-person Panels to be held at Jagiellonian University
- V for virtual Panels*

*Hybrid participation is not possible.

What you need to do next

1. You may be eligible for our funding opportunities. Please check the criteria and apply here before 23 February.
2. Make any changes necessary to the abstract, title and keywords of your Paper through your My ECPR account. If you need to add or change a Co-Author, you can do so through My Events, following these steps in our help centre.
3. Registration for the event will open in late March. As you are affiliated with an ECPR Member institution, a 50% discount on your registration fee will be automatically applied at checkout.

Are you a student?

Ensure that your student status in your My ECPR profile has been verified by our team before registering to receive your discount.

If you have any questions or if you are no longer able to attend, please let us know.

Congratulations, once again!

Kind regards
The Events Team

European Consortium for Political Research
Harbour House, Hythe Quay, Colchester, Essex CO2 8JF
www.ecpr.eu

The ECPR is a Charitable Incorporated Organisation (CIO) no. 1167403

Virus-free. www.avast.com

